Red Veins / Rosacea

Facial thread veins or broken red veins (telangiectasia) are small unsightly superficial red, purple or blue veins that occur around the nose and across the cheeks and chin. Often the exact cause is unknown and may just be part of the natural ageing process or as a part of a skin condition called rosacea.

Facial vessels are effectively treated with Intense Pulse Light (IPL), with minimal downtime or risk, in just a few quick and easy treatments. We can also treat birthmarks such as port wine stains and vascular scarring.

Pigment Removal

Sun spots, liver spots, freckles and other unwanted pigmentation are often associated with skin ageing and over-exposure to the sun or sunbeds. From the age of about 40 the skin is less able to regenerate from sun exposure and age spots start to appear. Generally these age spots pose no health risk, however they can be unsightly and create a patchy, less youthful appearance. Freckling and age spots are successfully lightened or removed Intense Pulse Light (IPL).

Intense Pulse Light (IPL) offers an effective yet comfortable way to achieve facial skin tightening and wrinkle reduction significantly improving your skin's complexion.

After a course of treatments you can enjoy tighter, firmer and younger looking skin with improved skin tone, texture and elasticity.

A course of Intense Pulsed Light treatments can significantly improve the appearance of Acne and effectively manage Acne outbreaks on the skin. Scarring from Acne can also be effectively treated and the appearance and surface of the skin significantly smoothed and redness and inflammation reduced aiding the healing process.
